

2-1-08

FOX Engineering Associates, Inc., of Ames, IA Announces Newly Registered Professional Engineer, Matthew Kasper

FOX Engineering is pleased to announce that Matthew Kasper has successfully passed state licensure exams and now holds the distinction of being a registered Professional Engineer in the State of Iowa. Mr. Kasper has served as a project engineer at FOX since 2004 and is utilized extensively for water distribution and storage studies that involve computer modeling. He is active in facility evaluation, report development, and the detailed design of water, wastewater, and biosolids processing facilities. Mr. Kasper graduated from Iowa State University in 2004 and holds bachelor's and master's degrees in Civil Engineering. Mr. Kasper is a native of Blaine, Minnesota and currently resides in Ankeny, Iowa.

